

OVERVIEW

The Church Planting Movement (CPM) Coordinator is a strategic leadership role responsible for the oversight and health of multiple Church Planting Streams, ensuring a sustained movement of multiplication. This position directly coaches and mentors Church Planters to establish healthy, self-reproducing churches where disciples make disciples. The Coordinator's core focus is to identify and resolve systemic issues that impede exponential growth, driving the overall ministry toward becoming a fully realized church planting movement. It is full time and support raising or self-funding is required. The role is based out of Bangkok, Thailand.

KEY RESPONSIBILITIES

- Church Planter Coaching and Mentorship: Provide direct, ongoing coaching and mentorship to a portfolio of Church Planters, specifically focused on equipping them to make disciples who multiply, leading to self-sustaining churches.
- Stream Health and Multiplication Oversight: Actively oversee and monitor the health of multiple church planting streams, establishing metrics and accountability to ensure established disciple-making groups successfully transition into healthy, reproducing churches.
- Movement Blockage Removal: Proactively identify theological, cultural, or systemic blockages preventing the acceleration of a Church Planting Movement (CPM) and facilitate strategic means to remove these obstacles in collaboration with local planters.
- Leadership Development and Training: Organize and implement standardized leadership training and development programs across all planting streams to ensure a continuous pipeline of equipped indigenous church leaders.
- Integration with Training Programs: Serve as a key connection point to ensure Missionary Training School (MTS) students and apprentices receive practical, hands-on experience by integrating them into active church planting teams.
- Strategy and Best Practice Facilitation: Regularly gather Church Planters for strategic planning, celebration, and fellowship, facilitating the sharing of best practices and ensuring alignment with proven CPM principles.
